

RM Reader Photo Page

Witchy forest. By Mary Foran of Clancy, who gave us an eerie, ominous composition.

This one says, "The sun's going down; what will you do?" This one would be even stronger with the sun blocked by a tree trunk.

Getting your goat. There's something surreal and even menacing in this photo by Rena Jones of Bigfork, whose winter landscape photo we used in the statewide edition on page 6. We cropped the image to vertical and intensified the blacks to make them pop.

Como Peaks. Claudette Johnson of Hamilton knows how to compose a landscape.

Four layers arranged in depth. The Comos, of course, in the background. The clouds beneath and in front of the peaks, of all things.

The line of trees. And the foreground snow-covered weeds. "Even knapweed can look pretty sometimes," she wrote. Great work, Claudette.

RM invites readers to send their very best photographs. We'll pay $10 for each picture used. Send prints or CDs to: RM Photo Page, Box 3469, Great Falls MT 59403. E-mail rural@mtco-ops.com, subject line: RM Photo Page. Three digital images or 5 MB at a time, please. High resolution, 300 or better. No dead animals. Give us your name and address so we know where to send the check.